Why Can IBPS PO Vacancies Change?

IBPS PO vacancies are based on the manpower requirements communicated by participating Public Sector Banks. The figures released during the recruitment process are generally indicative. Vacancies can change because of factors such as:

- Fresh manpower requirements submitted by participating banks.
- Retirement of existing officers.
- Expansion of banking operations and branches.
- Internal staffing requirements.
- Administrative decisions by participating banks.
- Additional vacancies reported after the original notification.

The 2026 recruitment itself is an example: the original vacancy count was 6,715, which increased to 7,365 after Indian Bank reported 650 vacancies and then to 7,565 after UCO Bank reported 200 vacancies.

Does Higher IBPS PO Vacancy Mean Easier Selection?

A higher vacancy count can improve the overall number of selection opportunities, but it does not automatically make the IBPS PO examination easier. The actual cut-off and selection chances depend on several factors, including:

- Total number of vacancies.
- Number of candidates appearing for the examination.

- Difficulty level of the examination.
- Performance of candidates.
- Category-wise vacancies.
- Normalization, wherever applicable.
- Mains and Interview performance for final selection.

Candidates should therefore focus on maximizing their score rather than depending only on the increased vacancy count.

IBPS PO Selection Process 2026

The selection process under CRP PO/MT-XVI includes the following stages:

1. Online Preliminary Examination
2. Online Main Examination
3. Personality Test
4. Common Interview
5. Provisional Allotment

The Personality Test is a new stage in the CRP PO/MT-XVI cycle. It is mandatory for shortlisted candidates before the Interview but does not independently contribute marks to the final merit score. Final merit is primarily prepared using the prescribed weightage of the Main Examination and Interview.
